DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 51-77 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claimed invention as a whole must be useful and accomplish a practical application. That is, it must produce a "useful, concrete and tangible result." State Street, 149 F.3d at 1373-74, 47 USPQ2d at 1601-02. In the instant application, applicant merely claims a storage for storing the video program and source material and the supplemental information. There is no "useful, concrete and tangible result" produced.

3. In accordance with 37 CFR 1.175(b)(1), a supplemental reissue oath/declaration under 37 CFR 1.175(b)(1) must be received before this reissue application can be allowed.

Claims 51-77 are rejected as being based upon a defective reissue declaration under 35 U.S.C. 251. See 37 CFR 1.175. The nature of the defect is set forth above.

Receipt of an appropriate supplemental oath/declaration under 37 CFR 1.175(b)(1) will overcome this rejection under 35 U.S.C. 251. An example of acceptable language to be used in the supplemental oath/declaration is as follows:

"Every error in the patent which was corrected in the present reissue application, and is not covered by a prior oath/declaration submitted in this application, arose without any deceptive intention on the part of the applicant."

See MPEP § 1414.01.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 3/5/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In considering applicant's argument that applicants claims produce "useful, concrete and tangible" results...Independent claim 51 resides in a video storage system including among other things, "storage for storing video program source material and supplemental information"...This, alone, constitutes a useful, concrete and tangible result in that "video program source material and supplemental information" are stored, presumably for later recall, the disagrees. Data structures not claimed as embodied in computer-readable media are descriptive material per se and are not statutory because they are not capable of causing functional change in the computer (MPEP 2106,01(I)). And when nonfunctional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium, in a computer or on an electromagnetic carrier signal, it is not statutory and should be rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101. (MPEP 2106.01). By the same token, in the instant case, the computer-readable scripting as the functional descriptive material, and the video data and edit-time-code as the nonfunctional descriptive material, which are not stored in a computer readable media, do not cause any functional change in a computer or anything else. Instead, they are video components stored in a video storage. Nonstatutory music is not a computer component, and it does not become statutory by merely recording it on a compact disk...Protection for this type of work is provided under the copyright law (MPEP 2106.01). Thus, by the same token, by merely recording the materials on a video storage does not make them statutory.
